Description

This residence is a stuccoed bungalow dating from the 1925-30 period. It is two bays wide with doubled front windows, a deep overhanging porch and a shed roofed porch. There is a small gable roofed block garage beside the house.

One of several bungalows in Keedysville, this house reflects the popularity of the style in the 1920s. Many dwellings of this era in Keedysville were built as retirement homes for farmers. This bungalow retains most of its original exterior finishes.
